REMNANTS OF THE RIOT.

Charges of Corruption and Bribery

Against T. C. Campbell,

President of the Hamilton County

(O.) Bar Association in the Proceedings to Disbar Him

From Practicing Law.

CINCINNATI, July 17.—In the District Court this morning the proceedings to disbar criminal lawyer T. C. Campbell came up for a hearing, and the information filed by the Hamilton County Bar Association some days ago were for the first time given to the public. The hearing came before Judge Buchanan, who, until elected Judge, was a law partner of Campbell's, and at his request, Judge Johnson, Chief Justice, was telegraphed to supply his place on the bench during this trial, which was done. The case, in consequence, has been continued until next Monday. This case grew out of the recent riots here, it being alleged that Campbell bribed the Berner jury, whose verdict led to the riots, and upon which charge Campbell now stands indicted.

The charges as filed by the Association are as follows: First—That T. C. Campbell, while prosecutor of the Police Court, on November 30, 1872, in an action for embezzlement against E. C. Minnemeier, did procure Josephine H. Minnemeier to pay $1,000 to Walter Groves, the prosecuting witness, by threatening that unless the money was paid Minnemeier would go to the penitentiary, and that thereafter the money was paid and the prosecution dismissed.

Charge Second—That Thomas C. Campbell, on about the second day of December, 1880, in Cincinnati, while an indictment for embezzlement against Silas W. Hoffman was pending in the Court of Common Pleas, wherein T. C. Campbell was attorney for Hoffman, he entered into a conspiracy with Prosecutor Samuel H. Drow to impel the jury in impeaching Hoffman in a legal and lawful way, and to unlawfully endeavor to have impeached on the jury the friends, associates, dependents and clients of T. C. Campbell, and the friends and associates of Hoffman, with whom Campbell had influence, and in order that he might corruptly and unlawfully influence their action as jurors, and requested one Henry Klein to apply to the officers of the court to be placed upon said jury, and promised to award and pay him for his service; and further, continued to have Albert Humphries and John L. Hite called as jurors with intent to influence the jury to be sworn.

Charge Third—That T. C. Campbell, on December 10, 1880, while counsel for Silas W. Hoffman, and pending a motion by the Prosecution Attorney to discharge the jury on the ground that the jury had been corruptly influenced in the interest of Hoffman, and through his agent and attorney did sign and make oath to an affidavit that Thomas C. Campbell did not approach Klein and request him to go on the jury, that he was not a client of T. C. Campbell and never had been, all of which Campbell was to be false.

Charge Fourth—That T. C. Campbell, on about February 6, 1881, while acting as attorney for Thomas Meade in the Circuit Court of the United States in certain proceedings instituted in aid of execution for the collection of a judgment in favor of the United States, as a forfeited recognizance, in the case of the United States vs. John Thompson, and in order to break into a Postoffice, did falsely represent to Channing Richards, District Attorney, and Harry R. Probasco, Special United States Attorney, to collect the said judgment, and to Deputy Marshall Twiford that the Thomas Meade who had been served in said proceedings was the same as the Thomas Meade who had entered into the said recognizance, saying that he, the said T. C. Campbell, had been present when the recognizance had been taken, and that he was the said William Manning, and knew that the surety was another Thomas Meade, and that the two men were not identical, and T. C. Campbell knew it, and acted to defraud the United States, and to prevent the collection of the judgment, he threatened officers of the United States if they proceeded he would prosecute them for a violation of their duty, and that said threats were made to defraud the United States.

Charge Fifth—That T. C. Campbell, on November 23, 1881, in Cleveland, while acting as attorney for the Hamilton County Bar Association, did conspire with William Eames to suborn one Hugh Quig to testify falsely, to wit, that George Eames was plaintiff in a certain case, and that he further conspired with Eames to have heard one Frank Foster taking in Mrs. Young's room at night, and that said testimony was false, as T. C. Campbell well knew; and that T. C. Campbell and William Eames induced Quig to get drunk and paid him a large sum of money for his deposition.

Charge Sixth—That T. C. Campbell, on November 19, 1878, while acting as attorney for Matthias Pfeiffer in the Circuit Court, on a charge of concealing spirits, suborned Jacob Pfeiffer to testify falsely to wit, that a certain witness produced at the trial purporting to be a promissory note of J. H. Delandish to Jacob Pfeiffer, given and delivered in full, and in fact made upon the said 19th day of November and during the progress of said trial.

Charge Seventh—That said T. C. Campbell was guilty of unprofessional conduct, involving moral turpitude, in entering into an illegal compact with Michael Crofty and George W. Ryan, known as Peggy, to obtain from Magdalene Gerke the employment of T. C. Campbell as her counsel, in a case where George Gerke was plaintiff and Magdalene Gerke defendant, for the purpose of setting aside the judgment of the Court, on false testimony, and that the furtherance of such corrupt agreement the three did represent, in consideration of large sums of money to be paid them, they could get evidence to set the judgment aside, and that T. C. Campbell and Crofty and Ryan obtained the $1,000 and a promise of fifteen per cent. of the value of the property in controversy; and that T. C. Campbell tried to have the decree set aside by means of false depositions.

Charge Eighth—That T. C. Campbell, on February 28, 1884, March 11, 1884, acting as attorney for William Berner, did unlawfully endeavor to have impeached as jurors his friends, associates, dependents and clients, among others Michael Geab, whom he crimined to reward; and that he permitted L. A. Phillips, a client, to make false and evasive statements relative to his relations to T. C. Campbell; and that he permitted C. T. Dolan to make false statements relative to his relations to T. C. Campbell. Charge Ninth—That T. C. Campbell is of general and notoriously bad reputation as a lawyer at law, and has the general reputation, as such attorney, of corruptly obtaining jurors and corruptly influencing their verdict, and of suborning witnesses to testify falsely, and thereby obstructing the administration of justice, and bringing the same into public scandal and reproach.

Yesterday he asked leave to go into a water closet, where he hanged himself while his attendant waited outside. MURDEROUS MILES

Hanged at Natchez, Miss., for Slaying His Wife.

NATCHES, Miss., July 17.—Albert Miles, a colored man, aged about thirty years, and by occupation a farm laborer and at one time a school teacher, was executed here to-day within the jail inclosure and in the presence of only a few witnesses, county officials and representatives of the press, for the murder of his wife in September, 1882. The deed was committed with a knife on Sunday at a church near Desdemon's Bend, on the Mississippi River, below Natchez, and was heartless, cold-blooded and premeditated.

He had frequently quarreled with his wife, and often accused her of dividing her affections between him and another man. On the night of the killing, while they were at church, Miles' imaginary rival came in and took a seat near them. This excited his ire, and he commanded his wife to accompany him out of church and home. She declined, and he went out alone and stood at the church door holding an open pocket knife of large size in his hand.

When the congregation was dismissed she came out and had gone about fifty yards from the church on the way home when Miles rushed up to her and stabbed her fatally in the breast. She fell to the ground after giving him a look of intense horror and moments were dead, the knife-blade having entered her heart. Miles attempted to get away, but some of the men who witnessed the deed pursued and soon captured him, and would have lynched him but for the sober conservative of the minister and some of the more conservative of the crowd.

He was lodged in jail, and at the following term of the court he was convicted and sentenced to death. Miles made another effort for relief by petition to the Governor for commutation of sentence to imprisonment in the penitentiary. But all this effort would do was to grant him a respite of sixty days from May 31 for the better preparation of his soul for the fate that awaited it.

During this respite Miles with a number of other prisoners, tunneled under the jail foundation and got into the jail yard. His consideration of the escape was of a very few moments, but he was less fortunate and was recaptured while trying to mount the fence by means of the gullows adjoined thereto, that had been erected for his execution in May, and that had been left standing for his special accommodation to-day.

When informed of this he said that he did not kill his wife intentionally, that he only meant to slap her, not remembering that he held the knife in his hand. He further said he was ready to die, that he had received pardon for his sins, and hoped for a crown of glory in the better land.

HE STRUCK THE CONVENTION.

A Drummer Enjoying Himself at His Employer's Expense.

CHICAGO, July 17.—W. S. Rex, a young and well supporting commercial traveler, was arrested in his room at the Sherman House yesterday by a detective. Rex's home is in St. Louis, and he is a salesman of samples. He had been in Chicago for some time, and was in the employ of a wholesale dealer in cloaks, at No. 330 Broadway, New York. He was entrusted with a trunk containing $100 worth of samples, and sent out on the road, but lost sight of it until he heard of it in this city. His story is that he had been in St. Louis for some time, and sent five cloaks there, coming to this city with the proceeds. Here his baggage was detained at the Chicago Hotel, and he was arrested. Rex was taken to the police station, and he was ordered to pay for the trunk. He managed to have the trunk transferred to the Sherman House, and then sold fifty-five cloaks to the police. Rex said he was not at all far short of his value. It is stated that Rex spent the money in having a good time with the delegates to the Democratic Convention. Mr. Rex said he was not at all far short of his value. It is stated that Rex spent the money in having a good time with the delegates to the Democratic Convention.

Our Proposition

Is to deliver free of charge to any section of country within a radius of one hundred miles, to any customer who may purchase of us one of the celebrated Columbus or Columbus buggies, or carriages, (equal to any surpassed by none), for less money than they can possibly be bought for in the State of Kentucky. Among the Follies of the Age which the introduction of Soodozol from since exploited, was the use of abrasive and corrosive tooth preparations, which either contained minerals which scratched their enamel, or acids which dissolved it. Soodozol, a health promoting substitute for these empirical articles, is a botanic, skillfully prepared, highly sanctioned preparation, which not only beautifies, cleanses and invigorates salivary colored and defective teeth, but divests the breath of an objectionable odor and restores to it that of health.

Lost Faith in Physicians.

There are innumerable instances where cures have been effected by Scoville's Sarsaparilla, or Blood and Liver Syrup, for all diseases of the blood, when they had been given over by their physicians. It is one of the best remedies ever offered to the public, and as it is prepared with the greatest care, as a specific for certain diseases, it is no wonder that it should be more effectual than the hastily written and carelessly prepared prescriptions. Take this medicine for all disorders arising from impure blood. It is enclosed by leading professional men.
